

A trans man is a female-to-male (FTM) transgender or transsexual person. A trans man was assigned female at birth, but identifies as male

*Every transguy is unique, so keep in mind that some may not agree with these reasons. Ask your partner about language and boundaries and always play safe.

Sex with a transguy is different... but only because everyone is different. It does not make you any less gay or any less male.

Hormones and surgeries do not make the man.

Respect how transguys self-identify— regardless of their choices about surgery and hormones.

Ask. Transmasculine folks may have various terms and boundaries for their bodies. Some may love having their front hole or chest touched, others won't. It's better to ask than to assume.

Top or Bottom? Many boys love using their hands or strapping on a big fat cock, while other guys want to bend over and take it in all three holes. Some may not be into any sort of penetrative sex.

Communicate. Transguys have different equipment, so it's especially important to talk about safer sex and boundaries before you get it on.

Be respectful. It's okay to not be interested right then or ever, but it's not okay to attack or demean someone. Be kind and leave people with their dignity intact.
